As Teddy Roosevelt has Presidential aspirations, the presumption is that he will not cavort much while presiding over the Senate lest unique antics might spoil his chances.

The military spirit is on top in one of the Nebraska districts. Notwithstanding reports of hazing, there are 400 applicants for West Point. But there is no rush to enlist in the U. S. Army as privates.

The electric cab company which put about a hundred vehicles on the streets of Chicago for the use of the public had to take them off because the streets were too rough. That was rough on the company, which lost money by the venture.

It is said that when Mr. McKinley takes his jaunt to the Pacific coast in May he will take his Cabinet with him, and run his part of the government on wheels. A car will be fitted up especially as a Cabinet car. Boss Hanna will presumably have charge of the train.

A peck of Kansas beans exhibited at the Paris Exposition so captivated the Frenchman who bought and ate them that he wrote to the bean man asking if he couldn't send him a small package of the seed, as he would like to see how they would grow in France.

In the 57th Congress the Republicans will have 198 members in the House of Representatives to 151 Democrats and 8 free lances. In the Senate they will have 53 to 29 Democrats, 4 Populists, 1 Independent Republican, 1 Silver Republican and 2 Independents.

There are said to be 7,000 applications on file in Washington for the 650 lieutenancies in the new army. But there don't seem to be any eager hustling to go into the ranks. Those applicants might be offered jobs in the ranks with a chance for promotion when vacancies occur.

The State of Texas has the largest Capitol building in this country and the seventh largest of the kind in the world. It is built of Texas granite, has a dome 311 feet high, is valued at $3,500,000, but didn't cost Texas a red. She gave a Chicago company 3,000,000 acres of land to build it. Some of the Texans think the job was dirt cheap.

THE SECOND PRIMARY

Contest Royal Between Mayoralty Candidates is Promised for the Morrow.

A FIFTH WARD PROTEST.

Decided Last Night Adversely to Contestant—Saloons Will Close This Evening at 7 O'clock—Appointive Officers on the Qui Vive.

If anything, interest centered about the municipal campaign is even more pronounced and intense just now than before the contest at the first primary on day before yesterday. Everybody confidently predicts that there will be a much more lively contest, though only a few officers to elect, than at the original primary on Monday.

There was no let up in the exercise of political finesse yesterday, and today promises even more interesting developments. The question yesterday was regarding the per centage of ex Mayor Jno. J. Fowler's vote in the first primary that the two remaining candidates in the field would be able to marshal at the polls to morrow. It is but fair to say that friends of each party to the mayoralty campaign were equally extravagant in claiming the strength of the body of voters in which is vested the balance of power and that the primary alone will decide it.

The rules and regulations for the primary to-morrow are the same as on Monday and all the inspectors are required to be in attendance. The polls will open at 7 A. M. and close at 7 P. M., and returns will be made to the Executive Committee as before.

There were many caucuses yesterday between friends of the several candidates for subordinate offices to be chosen by the Board of Aldermen on the first Monday in April. Trading and trafficing is already being heard on the street and to those "behind the scenes" there appears to be as much interest shrouding the first meeting of the "new board" as there was in the case of the primary. The average Aldermanic nominee was besieged yesterday with applicants for position and the undesirable features of the life of an Alderman began to assert themselves in fitting style.

Protest From the Fifth.

The Executive Committee last night had to deal with a protest from the Fifth ward in regard to the aldermanic nomination there. The protest was made by Mr. W. J. Reaves, who received in the ward 316 votes. He declared that Mr. W. E. Mann, the nominee declared elected by the Executive Committee, having received 320 votes, was not entitled to his seat, from the fact that half a dozen or more of the votes received by him were challenged, and that the challenges were duly sustained. He asked that a second primary be held to determine a choice between the two. His protest was read at the meeting, but Mr. Reaves was not present to represent his case and after waiting an hour, upon motion of Mr. J. G. L. Gieschen, the protest was dismissed. Mr. Mann was present with his attorney, Herbert McClammy, Esq., but the case was not gone into and the action above was unanimously taken, every member of the committee being present.

Saloons Close This Evening.

As will be seen in an official announcement in another column of the STAR, Mayor Waddell orders that all bar-rooms in the city must close at 7 o'clock this evening and remain closed until Friday morning at 7 o'clock, in accordance with the law governing such cases, which provides that all such places must be closed twelve hours prior to and after the holding of the primary. This law also applies to the election to-morrow week.

WITH THE NAVAL RESERVES.

Elected Lieutenant Chase Commander of Division and J. J. Blair to Vacancy Caused by Promotion.

Pursuant to orders received yesterday from Capt. H. H. McIlhenny, commanding the North Naval Brigade, the Wilmington Division of Reserves, after regular drill last night, held a meeting at which Lieut. H. M. Chase, Junior Grade, was chosen to succeed Lieut. A. B. Skelding, Senior Grade, commanding the division, and Mr. John Jay Blair, was chosen Lieutenant, Junior Grade to succeed Mr. Chase promoted. Both elections were unanimous and upon announcement of the result by Secretary Charles E. McMillan there were enthusiastic cheers for the new officers.

The election of an Ensign was declared in order but upon motion it was deferred to a subsequent meeting.

At the meeting Mr. S. K. DeVaney presided and Mr. McMillan was present in his official capacity. The Division had a very interesting competitive drill before the meeting conducted by Mr. Chase who is a gentlemen well versed in military affairs and eminently popular with members of the Division.

Petty officers will be announced next Tuesday night when it is hoped there will be a full attendance of members.

Do you want to see a grand sight? Then go to Rehder's Thursday and Friday.

BRUNSWICK SUPERIOR COURT.

Term Adjourned Yesterday Afternoon—No Suits of Importance Were Heard.

Brunswick Superior Court adjourned yesterday after a two day's session, Judge Fred Moore presiding. Messrs. Herbert McClammy, L. V. Grady, R. G. Grady, A. J. Marshall and John H. Gore, Jr., Esqs., and Solicitor C. M. McLean came up to the city on the steamer Wilmington yesterday afternoon.

There were no important cases tried at this term, and the proceedings were totally devoid of interest. At the beginning of the term there was not a single prisoner in the jail, and all important civil suits were continued. Among the latter were the famous Green Swamp cases, involving about 20,000 acres of real estate, and the case of F. M. Moore vs. Navassa Guano Company, the continuance of which was heard in chambers here Saturday night.

Judge Moore and the Wilmington attorneys in attendance upon the court are expected to come up to the city to day.

THE JOINT MEETING OF PYTHIANS.

Preparations Complete for Most Enjoyable Lodge Function This Evening.

Pythian interest in Wilmington is centered to day in the joint meeting of the four lodges of the city as the special guests to-night of Jefferson Lodge, No. 61. This event will be the second of the series of monthly meetings recently arranged and promises to be one fraught with much pleasure and overflowing with good fellowship.

Mr. E. H. Munson will be master of ceremonies and Mr. G. W. Branch assistant. The committee of arrangements consists of Capt. J. C. Morrison, Col. W. J. Woodward, Dr. J. N. Johnson, Messrs. A. S. Holden. R. S. Collins and H. E. Bonitz.

The address of the evening will be delivered by Dr. J. N. Johnson and another feature of the occasion will be a visit to the lodge by Mr. J. Robert Jordan, State organizer and an impersonator of splendid ability. He arrived last evening and will accompany Col. W. J. Woodward and his team for the institution of the new lodge at Clarkton Thursday.

N. C TEACHERS' ASSEMBLY.

Profs. C. H. Mebane and J. A. Holt Will Be Here To-day.

Professors C. H. Mebane and J. A. Holt, both prominent officials and members of the executive committee of the North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, which it is hoped will hold its annual meeting at Wrightsville Beach this Summer, will arrive in Wilmington on the Seaboard Air Line train to day at noon and will be taken to the beach to look over the field and and ascertain the relative desirability of the place for the convention with other points that are making efforts for the big gathering.

Mr. Jos. H. Hinton, proprietor of the Seashore Hotel, which is now undergoing enlargement and material improvement, will take the visitors in charge and will do all he can in the way of influencing these prominent educators to bring the teachers here. In this effort he should have the heartiest support of every citizen interested in Wilmington and its favorite seaside resorts.

CAPTAIN WILLEY HAS RETURNED.

Arrived Last Evening and Will Go in Command of His Ship To-day.

Capt. Owen S. Willey, in command of the U. S. revenue cutter Algonquin stationed at this port, arrived in the city last evening from Washington, D. C., where he has been spending several months under treatment by specialists for an affection of the ear which gave him great trouble during the last weeks spent in Wilmington immediately preceding his departure. The friends of Capt. Willey were rejoiced to see him again much improved and in good spirits. He will go aboard his ship to-day and will accompany her on its cruise.

Capt. Howison, of the revenue cutter Boutwell stationed at Newbern, who has been in command of the Algonquin during Capt. Willey's absence, will likely return to his regular post to day. He has made many friends here, who will note his departure with regret.

THE LAST SAD RITES

Performed Over the Remains of the Late Mrs. Oscar Pearsall Yesterday.

The obsequies of the lamented Mrs. Oscar Pearsall, whose sad death occurred Monday morning at her late home at Fernside, in East Wilmington, were held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a faithful member. Rev. A. D. McClure conducted the services. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in Oakdale cemetery and the mound was covered with beautiful flowers which bore testimony of the high regard and esteem in which she was held by all who knew her.

The following gentlemen were pall bearers: Honorary, Drs. D. W. Bulluck and W. J. Love, and Messrs. B. G. Worth and R. J. Jones; active, Capt. R. W. Price, Messrs. G. J. Boney, W. H. Price, R. W. Hicks, J. C. Stevenson and J. E. Crow.

Beautiful hats, sweet music, lovely decorations at Rehder's Thursday and Friday.

IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

The Prolonged Cross Examination of Chief Justices Furches Concluded.

JUDGE DOUGLAS ON THE STAND

A Number of Witness as to Character Testify—Supreme Court Decisions. The Martin Defalcation—No Further Discrepancies.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., March 19.—The examination of the books of the State treasurer and their comparison with the books of the State's prison with a view to ascertaining the amount of the defalcations of Major W. H. Martin, institutional clerk under ex-State Treasurer W. H. Worth, will commence to day. The examination will be by the special legislative committee consisting of Senator Arrington and Representives Winston and Shannonhouse.

State Treasurer Worth told me this morning that no further discrepancies in the books have been found since the arrest of Martin last week. Mr. Lacy and his clerks made some further investigation yesterday. He does not think the defalcation will amount to very much if any, more than has already been discovered, about $4,000 That is the difference apparent in the State's prison accounts in the treasurer's office and those at the prison. There is no other institution that would offer the opportunity for tampering with accounts that the State's prison does, for the reason that no other institution has fluctuating accounts like the prison, there being a constant income from the institution as well as a standing appropriation, thereby complicating accounts so that the clerk would have an opportunity to cover up his embezzlements until a careful and detailed investigation is made. None of the other institutions have fluctuating accounts, and the records show at a glance what the financial standing of the institutions are as compared with the appropriations in the hands of the treasurer.

[Special Star Telegram.]

The Impeachment Trial.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 19.—During to day's session of the Court of Impeachment the cross-examination of Chief Justice Furches was concluded and the testimony of Associate Justice Douglas was taken. The cross examination of Judge Furches, as on yesterday, was conducted by James H. Pou. It involved principally the course of the court in the famous office-holding cases and the soundness of the doctrine that a person appointed to office has a property right vested in both the office and the duties thereof, and could not be divested of the right as long as the office existed, except for misconduct. Chief Justice Furches had a ready answer for every question, and cited precedents through a course of sixty years for justification of his position.

At the conclusion of Judge Furches' testimony Major W. M. Robbins, J. B. Holman, J. H. Hoffman and Dr. W. S. Stephenson were introduced as witnesses to prove Judge Furches' character. All gave him the highest possible standing. Holman said Judge Furches was a strong partisan, but did not think that would sway him in judicial decisions. Major Robbins shed tears in testifying; he had loved Furches all his life as a man, and hated his politics.

Watson was cross examining, and Robbins, in answer to a question, said Furches was no more a partisan in his politics than he (Robbins) and Watson were in theirs.

Associate Justice Douglas' direct testimony was very similar to that of Furches. His cross examination by Watson was very rigid, involving all manner of questions of law. The only notable feature was that Douglas admitted that according to his ruling in White's case the Legislature could elect a man to an office for forty years or life, and he would have a vested right that could only be annulled by abolishing the office and its duties.

To morrow Associate Justice Montgomery will take the witness stand.

Supreme Court.

Cases in the Seventh district were disposed of by the Supreme Court to-day:

Koch vs. Porter, certiorari issued and case continued; Lehew vs. Hewett, case to be submitted under rule 12, if counsel desire; Carter vs. W. & W. Railroad Company, continued; Barrett vs. McCrimmon, argued by Seawell and Burns for plaintiff; Knight vs. Hatfield, continued; Broadfoot vs. Fayetteville (two appeals), put at end of docket by consent; McDougald vs. Town of Lumberton, motion to affirm judgment argued; Dunham vs. Andrews, put at end of docket.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 20.

LIMIT THE COTTON ACREAGE.

There is no economic question in which the people of the South are now as directly and as vitally interested as they are in the question of judiciously regulating the production of cotton. In the STAR of the 13th inst. we published some extracts from a communication in the Atlanta Constitution giving reasons why the cotton acreage should not be increased, every one of which was good. The writer of that communication was vouched for by the Constitution as one of the best informed men in this country on the cotton question. In the Constitution of Sunday there is another letter, on the same subject, by Capt. W. G. Raoul, formerly president of the Georgia Central Railroad, and now president of the Mexican National Railway system, whom the Constitution pronounces "one of the most distinguished American financiers." This letter so strongly supports the one from which we made the extracts in the STAR of the 13th, is so timely and pertinent, and of so much importance—not only to Southern cotton growers, but to the people of the South generally, that we here reproduce it entire, because, although somewhat lengthy, cutting would mar it:

"Editor Constitution:—The editorial 'To the Farmers of the Cotton Belt,' published in a recent issue of the Constitution, has sounded a note of warning that should be heeded by every cotton grower in the South.

"Too much emphasis cannot be given to that suggestion of limiting the cotton acreage within reasonable bounds, nor the importance of so doing exaggerated.

"When we reflect that the 11,274,000 bale crop of 1898 9 sold at an average of 6 cents for middling upland in New York, ranging from 5 5-16 to 6⅝, and yielded a total for the crop of $282,772,000, while that of 1899-1900, smaller by nearly 2,000,000 bales, sold at the average of 8 69, varying from 6⅜ at the beginning of the season to 10¼ in July, and yielded a total for the crop of $363,773,000, we can realize what it would mean to the Southern States if the production of cotton could be intelligently regulated to measurably correspond to the demands of consumption. Thus in 1899-1900 the South was relieved of the expense of making and handling nearly two million bales and received $81,000,000 more than for the big crop of the previous year. The difference is that between virtual bankruptcy and a high state of prosperity. The production of cotton is on a somewhat different footing from nearly all other commodities. The farmer can make no use of it in his domestic economy. Though the selling price may represent a loss, he must sell it. He plants with a possible knowledge of the annual demand for the world's consumption and with a certain knowledge that an output or yield within or corresponding to that demand the selling price will be profitable, but with no means of forecasting to the slightest extent what the total yield will be. Whatever the price, it must go on the market. He cannot retire from business when the price is unprofitable. The organization of business in the South and the commercial lines along which he must live and work are such that it is practically impossible for him to change from cotton to another crop, except through a gradual process of increasing his grain, forage and meat, and this can only be carried beyond his own needs of consumption, whenever there are better commercial facilities for carrying and marketing such other products which are now so sadly lacking in the business and trade arrangements of the South. But it is through this policy that he may do much to reduce the cotton acreage to the point of bringing the yield measurably in accord with the worlds requirements. With a surplus over the world's requirements of 1,500,000 bales to be carried over in the world's stock at the close of the cotton year the mills are in a position to make the price, for the reason that supplies are available to run them till the pressure on the market from the new crop still further increases their opportunity for forcing down prices; and the method of marketing the crop is peculiarly detrimental to the producer. From its bulky character, the risk and expense of storage and the pressure of the money lender it is forced upon the market as rapidly as it can be prepared for shipment, and thus, even in years of small crops, there is more being brought forward than needed for current consumption, which almost invariably depresses the price during the period the farmer is selling to be advanced later on when in the hands of the mills and middlemen and the short yield has become a known factor in the market. This system of marketing is calling aloud for improvement in the interest of the farmer, and small cotton acreage and better prices are the channels through which improvement can be reached.

"This matter of bringing production in accord with consumption and thus insuring reasonable profits to the farmer, the dealer and the carrier is vital to the South, but at the same time it is of the greatest concern to the whole nation. It is by no means the South alone that is to be benefited. It would be difficult to estimate with accuracy the proportional influences of higher prices of cotton in bringing gold into the country, keeping up the treasury gold reserves and in maintaining an easy money market which contributes so largely to the prosperity of the whole country, but that it is immense and that our cotton exports are indispensible in the settlement of our trade balances abroad all know and admit. During the past twenty years the value of our cotton exports have averaged over $320,000,000 per year.

"The big crop years of 1897 98 and 1898 99, both over 11,000,000 bales, reduced the selling price to an average of 6 22 and 6 cents a pound in New York and the value of our own cotton exports for those years was, in round figures, $532,000,000 and $212,000,000, respectively. The reduced crop of 1899 1900 an average of 8 69 cents per pound (New York market) and our exports for that season brought a return to this country from abroad of $345,000,000. Does not this speak eloquently of the importance to the country of the planter receiving profitable prices for his product.

"Now is it possible to control or regulate production in this vast interest to the extent of securing the benefits that follow living prices to the producers?

"Is it too much to hope that a combination of so large a class can be made effective even if it were desirable, but is it not possible that the following up of the line of your editorial of Sunday last and the co operation with you of the patriotic papers of the cotton belt would make a deep and widespread impression upon cotton planters and very likely result in avoiding any material increase in the acreage planted this season? The statistics of the cotton crop and trade in all their features are complete and exhaustive and easily available to all, but few will study them or apply their lessons to themselves. This is a subject that comes well within the province of the Cotton Growers' Association, but to effect results in the direction of their efforts it must abandon the idea of the possibility of holding up prices by concert of action after the crop is made, and begin in time to exert its influence to limit acreage, for all must know that once made the cotton must be sold and the quantity produced and the selling price must bear a constantly relative proportion.

"The very preparation for a large acreage is one of its most potent influences for depressing the price of cotton during the last half of the season. The bear wave that is now sweeping over the market is largely supported by the alleged information of extensive preparations for an increased acreage and for a largely increased yield by a more liberal use of fertilizers. This, of course, is only one of the many arguments and assertions made to depress prices, but it is one of the most potent and is being effectively used in the face of one of the strongest statistical conditions for sustaining prices that has existed for many years, not excepting last season. The cotton brought in sight up to the 1st of March of the present season is 8,349,922 bales. If the amount to come in sight for the balance of the season is not more than the average percentage of the crops of the last twelve years coming in sight between March 1st and August 31st the present crop cannot exceed 9,500,000 bales. If instead of the average percentage of the crops of the past twelve years we use the figures for the amount that came in sight between those dates in our largest crop year—1898 99—it will only indicate the present crop to be 10,077,000 bales.

"Starting as we did on September 1st with only about 500,000 bales of American cotton in the world's stock, the above indicated yield will be inadequate to meet consumption as estimated by the best talent of this country and Europe.

"It seems strange that in the face of these facts and figures a concerted bear movement can frighten Southern holders into rushing their cotton on the market at the present comparatively low figures. W. G. RAOUL.

"ATLANTA, GA., March 15, 1901."

HER TEETH IN AFRICA.

The comments by some of the London papers on the incident at Tien Tsin, where a collision between British and Russian troops was so narrowly averted, are a confession of weakness and humiliation in not being able to resent what they regard as a piece of Russian insolence and virtually a challenge to Great Britain. With the war on hand in South Africa, and one which, notwithstanding the peace talk, will tax British military resources for some time to come, Great Britain is in no condition to go to war with any other nation and therefore must meekly submit to having (as some of the London papers express it) "her face slapped."

When some time ago Lord Salisbury was asked why Great Britain did not take a more positive stand in China he said "our teeth are in South Africa," and those teeth had about all they could attend to there. Other nations which were engaged in the grab business in China knew that as well as Lord Salisbury did, and consequently they gave themselves little concern about consulting Great Britain, or as to what Great Britain might think about what they were doing there.

While apparently acting in concert with the other nations Russia has been playing a lone hand in China, and has been clinching the hold on what she has grabbed, and she intends to hold it, too. She is not going to have any war about it if she can avoid it without surrendering the vantage ground she has gained, because she is financially strained and war just now would be inconvenient, but if it came to that she could stand it better than Great Britain could. Great Britain knows that too and that's another reason why her rulers do not want to grapple with the Bear.

And then again there is uncertainty as to what the attitude of the other powers might be when the scrap began, and they might find themselves confronted by more than Russia. This very uncertainty as to how many might be involved may be the potent influence at last to prevent the clash that at times seems imminent. It makes a great deal of difference with the average nation, and a great deal with John Bull, whether the nation that bucks up against them is strong or weak. The hankering for a fight is governed a good deal by that.

Explorations show that there are extensive deposits of coal in Rhodesia, South Africa, said to be as good as the Welsh coal. They are known to extend over 400 square miles. The coal lies within forty feet of the surface and the veins are from five to ten feet in width. Another reason why John Bull wants to hold his grip on that country and take in more of it.

Story of A Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Everybody guaranteed Only 50 cents. Sold by R. R. BELLAMY, Druggist. †

AFRAID OF THE TRUSTS.

When Congressman Babcock, Republican, of Wisconsin, announced his purpose to move for a repeal of the protective duties on articles controlled by Trusts, his announcement was approved and endorsed by other prominent Republicans in Congress, but it was politics with all of them. If they were sincere in their opposition to Trusts they would have done that years ago when they saw the Trusts springing up by the dozen, for they knew as well then as they do now that this protection was the fosterer of Trusts and that without it there would be very few if any.

The organization of the great United States Steel combine, which includes all the great steel working plants in this country, controlling the steel output in its various forms, seems to have waked Mr. Babcock up and called forth an expression of sentiment by him, and others who agreed with him. But the war on the Trusts by the Republicans has not been declared yet and it is very doubtful whether it will be. If it be the reason will be the belief that such a movement will be made by the Democrats, which will force the Republicans to take position for or against the Trusts. Whatever the opinions of a few congressmen may be the Republican party as a party will move very slowly when it comes to antagonize the Trusts to which it is indebted for so much of its support and success. In commenting upon Mr. Babcock's attitude the Philadelphia Times says:

"Congressman Babcock, of Wisconsin, claims to have received sufficient Republican encouragement in his proposition to fight billion dollar trusts by repealing the tariff duties upon tariff made articles to justify him in introducing his anti trust tariff measure into the next House. That the organs of the trust fear that he will do this and give them a lot of trouble is indicated by the way they disparage the Babcock bill and its author. They are trying to instill a goodly amount of poison into the public mind against the Wisconsin Representative and his measure in advance of the meeting of Congress.

"Babcock deserves all the encouragement he is getting from Republican or any other source, for he has aimed his legislative dart at the vulnerable point in the trust armor. Those who do not want the American Republic to become the private preserve of the trusts, and its seventy-five millions of people their helpless serfs, should sustain any man or measure that will destroy the power of the trusts. The trust peril is one that threatens the entire community and transcends all party lines. All who are threatened by this peril should join hands to protect themselves against it.

"Notwithstanding this apparent fact, Congressman Babcock's bill, or any other bill with similar provisions, if passed, must be made a Democratic measure and be enacted chiefly by Democratic votes. It might be good Republican policy for the Republicans in Congress to claim credit for Congressman Babcock's bill as a Republican measure, but they won't. The trusts dominate the Republican party in and out of Congress, pay its campaign expenses, have their agents in both branches of Congress, and they will compel the Republican leaders to preserve inviolate the chief source of trust profits, the tariff which, according to Mr. Havemeyer, is the mother of trusts."

"Congressman Babcock may introduce his bill, and Republicans by the thousands from all sections may indorse it, but the only party that will stand solidly in Congress for the principle contained in the bill will be the Democratic party. The Republican party is a trust owned, trust dominated party, Congressman Babcock to the contrary notwithstanding, and it will not declare its independence at the coming or any other session of Congress. The overthrow of the trusts will only be brought about through Democratic victory and Republican defeat.

Some Republican Congressmen may talk one way on the Trusts, but there will be enough of them who will vote the other way to make the Trusts secure. If the Republicans who are honestly opposed to them, if there be any such, hope to check them by Federal legislation they must do it with Democratic support and Democratic votes. Every intelligent person in this country knows that.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— President McKinley said in his inaugural address that our institutions would not suffer by extension. That is a "glittering generality" to which there are obvious exceptions; but Mr. McKinley knows quite well that instead of being extended, our institutions are being contracted. That is inevitable when the executive power is increased at the expense of the legislative power. —Norfolk Landmark, Dem.

—— The importance of the submarine boat as a factor in warfare seems to be more highly appreciated abroad than here. England is building five of the Holland pattern, and France has ordered twenty three of a type designed at home. It is evident that in case of war between any of the maritime powers in the near future, these boats will be opposing each other under the surface, and in case of a collision not a man may be left to tell the tale of disaster. —Brooklyn Citizen, Dem.

—— Andrew Carnegie made a magnificent finish of his business career by giving five million dollars for the special benfit of the men who had helped him to earn his money. Of all the very wealthy men who have been enabled to get an unusual start in the world through the discriminating favor of our laws none have been so willing as Mr. Carnegie to frankly acknowledge the source of their prosperity, nor so munificent in so distributing their benefits. Mr. Carnegie has had a remarkable career, and is himself a remarkable man.—Philadelphia Record, Dem.

HEART-SICK.

There are a great many people who have heart sickness, who have no chronic derangement of the heart. When the stomach is diseased it may affect many other organs, and produce all the evidences of diseased heart, diseased liver or kidneys, or disease in some other organ.

The inexperienced practitioner treats the wrong disease, and hence the constant statement of Dr. Pierce's correspondents: "Doctors could not help me."

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It increases the assimilative powers, and purifies and enriches the blood. When diseases of organs remote from the stomach are caused by the stomach, the cure of the stomach results in the cure of the other diseases, in heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, etc.

"Six years ago my stomach and heart troubled me so much I had to do something, as the doctors could not help me," writes Mrs. S. A. Knapp, of San Jose, California, Box 92. "I went to San Francisco and had treatment for catarrh of the stomach, and was better for some time, then it came back. I then used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' These medicines cured my stomach. I do not have the pain and indigestion as I did. It is very hard for me to tell you what I suffered before I commenced taking your valuable medicine. I recommend it to all the sufferers whom I meet."

To cure constipation use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Troy Examiner: A posse of revenue officers discovered and seized eight barrels of whiskey in the woods near Little river, not far from Star, last week. This was shipped to Raleigh.

— Lumberton Robesonian: We regret to learn of the death of Mr. Seth Smith, which occurred at his home near Tar Heel Sunday afternoon. The cause was heart failure, from which he had suffered only a few hours. Mr. Smith was one of our most prominent and progressive citizens, whose death will be a loss to his community and county.

— Newbern News: George Lindsay, colored, died Saturday night at number 22 Jones street under rather suspicious circumstances. Lindsay was brought from James City in a transfer Saturday night in a bad condition, being unable to speak, and was taken to the street and number above named, where he soon died. He usually carried a gold watch, which had been taken with whatever money he may have had in his pocket.

— Raleigh News and Observer: News was received at Greenville by telephone Sunday morning that a murder was committed in Ayden Saturday night. Full particulars not yet received, but from what can be learned two brothers named McGlohorn and another young man named Braxton had some trouble. The McGlohorns went before the mayor to get out a peace warrant against Braxton. Not long after this the men got together again and Braxton's throat was cut. He died in a few minutes. The coroner went down there to hold an inquest. The parties are all white.

— Charlotte News: Mr. Z. B. Buchanan, of Blowing Rock, left here last Wednesday for New York with a shipment of one million Galax leaves. This new industry is growing to large proportions in the mountains. This is the third shipment of one million leaves, each shipped by Johnson & Buchanan, of Blowing Rock, and we learn that the shipments from Elk Park and Montezuma will average a carload per week. These leaves are picked by women and children, counted and tied into bundles of 25 each and sold to the stores at so much per thousand, thus affording profitable employment for the children and others in the mountains where there are no factories. The merchants then pack the leaves thus tied in bundles into cases holding 10,000 leaves each and ship them to the cities for decorating purposes.

— Tarboro Southerner: Literally Monday W. J. Teachey, section master on the A. C. L., had a hairbreadth escape. He, in trying to stop a car which was moving, with a crow bar, was struck with that tool under the chin and thrown so near the track that while he lay there insensible the wheels actually ran over some of the hair on his head. Dr J. M. Baker, the surgeon for the company, happened to be near, and at once attended him. He does not think the injuries serious, though he will, of course, suffer considera pain from his bruised jaw and chin. —— Little Elen, the five-year-old daughter of L. E. Barrow, near St. Lewis, bitten by a supposed mad dog about six weeks ago, died last Friday. After being bitten she was taken to Baltimore, where the physicians declared that they found no trace of the rabbies in her system. A few days before her death she became strangely affected, had spasms, especially after drinking water. She died in convulsions. Some believe she had hydrophobia, and others menengitis. The physician who attended her did not say positively what her ailment was. —— Near the line of the E. C. railway between Macclesfield and Turnage, on the farm of the late Dennis Mercer, now owned by his widow, is a huge round pile of lightwood placed there thirty six years ago to make a tar kiln. It is in the shape of an inverted truncated pyramid about fifteen feet in diameter at the base, and twenty five feet at the top, and nine or ten feet high. The resinous wood is as sound now as it was when put there. At the rate the small bundles of this kindling wood is sold here in the stores, there is at least $500 worth of it. Mrs. Mercer, for some reason, will not sell nor permit the huge pile to be disturbed. Near it is a small pine tree whose bark is worn smooth by people climbing up it to see how the huge pile appears on top.

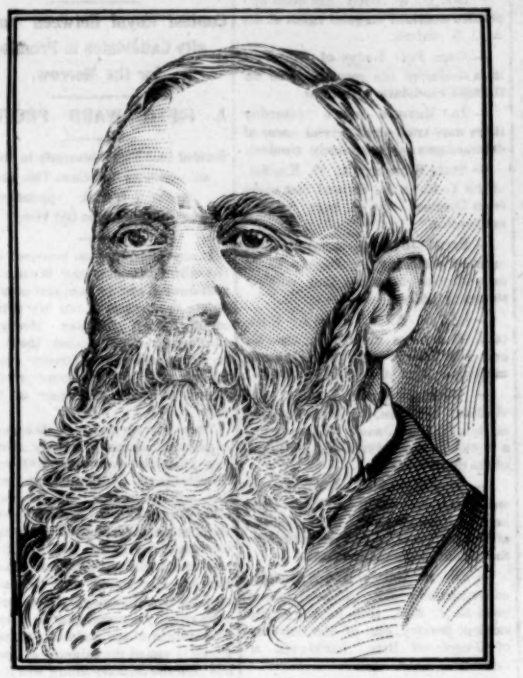
Plain-Spoken Reasons for Recommending Paine's Celery Compound.



The one really great spring remedy that is in greater demand this month than ever before—the remedy that men and women in every station in life believe in—the remedy that naturally far outsells all others because it is the only remedy that cures is

Paine's celery compound!

Reports of druggists throughout the country prove Paine's celery compound to be the universal spring remedy.

The great discriminating public has created this tremendous demand.

For this marvelous remedy, first prescribed by Dartmouth's famous professor, has cured, is curing and will cure the people. Thousands of sufferers are every month being won over to its use because they have witnessed its wonderful cures among their friends or in their immediate neighborhood.

Robert S. Dartt, like so many others, began taking Paine's celery compound because of the recommendation of a friend whom it had cured. The results were so much beyond his expectation that he is always eager to tell of it for the benefit of others:—

Covington, Pa., Jan. 22

I first begun using Paine's celery compound through the recommendation of a friend of mine, and find it has done me a world of good. I did not expect one bottle to cure me, but it did put me on my feet, so that I could work, while before, when I began to exercise I would have a heavy throbbing of the heart, grow sick at the stomach as though there was a heavy lump just under the short ribs, and it would seem as though my legs would drop off, and it would be such hard work to breathe.

Gratefully yours.

ROBERT S. DARTT.

Paine's celery compound achieved success from the very start.

It has lifted the burden of diseased nerves and impure blood from the poor and rich alike.

Business and professional men, brain workers, artisans, mechanics, social leaders of both sexes have come to rely on Paine's celery compound as the one safe, trustworthy, health restoring spring remedy.

It speaks volumes that of all the men and women who have recovered health by its means most of them were induced to take it through the persuasion of mothers, sisters, friends or relatives.

It is a remedy for the aged as well as for the young.

The fact cannot be too strongly emphasized that Paine's celery compound is a physician's remedy, and as such is freely used and prescribed by the most eminent practitioners.

It accomplishes results!

For all those diseases which are really the result of weakened nerves or impure blood, such as dyspepsia, headaches, nervousness, rheumatism, liver and kidney trouble, malaria, and debility, Paine's celery compound is the only known remedy that not only relieves but permanently cures.

If you wish to be well and strong use Paine's celery compound. Its superiority to every other means of purifying the blood and strengthening the nerves has been proved in scores of instances in every community.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The cotton market opened steady with prices unchanged to two points higher, although a decline had been looked for owing to a disappointing Liverpool cable report. Following the opening there was an advance of one and three points on some positions on buying orders received here in response to over night wire orders. As soon as the outside buying orders had been sent, local pressure was renewed under heavy receipts and further unsatisfactory accounts from Fall Rivre, the latter in effect being that mills representing a total of two million spindles had agreed to shut down from now until May 8th, which meant a reduction of but 25,000 bales at most in consumption of cotton and a reduction of but 1,000,000 pieces of cloth. Liquidation once more became the controlling influence and with renewed selling also by the bear contingent prices dropped sharply from the level indicated by 8.26 for May to 8 10 for that position. This decline was very sharp, but was finally arrested by covering and the appearance of some good buying for a reaction. Throughout the session the market was exceedingly nervous but the close was steady at a net decline of one to seven points.

A WHITETHORN WOOD.

Oh, King Arthur's court went a-dancing to the Maying,
'Neath the spring's new sky, mid the spring's new blossoms straying;
Light laughs laughed they, and sweet words they were saying
In a whitethorn wood in the Maytime!

Sir Launcelot and the queen from the Maytime strayed apart;
In his eyes was dark Love's passion; in her breast was dark Love's smart.
Sir Launcelot and the queen they were clasped heart to heart
In a whitethorn wood in the Maytime!

Oh, Love's pain wakes with the wakening of the spring,
And it crowns a lass a queen, though she ne'er be wife of king!
Best stay at home and spin, for, oh, Love's a perilous thing
In a whitethorn wood in the Maytime!
—Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland in Smart Set.

ODD USE FOR CANNON BALLS

They Take the Place of Steel Wedges in Stone Quarries.

"Cannon balls for blasting!"

This sign, hung in a conspicuous place before the door of a store on Atlantic avenue led a reporter inside and started a bit of questioning upon the subject.

The proprietor said: "Last fall when the United States government sold all of the old cannon balls and solid shot which for so many years were piled in pyramids along the main street of the navy yard at Charlestown we purchased a lot of them, with little thought of converting them into anything besides pig iron. But a few weeks after we had stored them here I overheard a quarry owner complaining of the slowness and uncertainty of the old system of steel wedging used in getting out huge blocks of granite, and after a bit of thought I suggested the use of cannon balls in the place of the steel wedges. We sent about 20 of various sizes and weights out to his quarry, and after the first trial he hurried a team in here with a note that read:

"'Tried the cannon balls. They are it. Send 50 more. Have thrown the steel wedges away.'

"The experience of this man led us to send the cannon balls and solid shot to other quarry operators, and within the past month the orders have been coming in so thickly we can scarcely fill them from the stock on hand.

"The method used in getting out great cubes or monoliths from the granite and marble quarries has been to drive steel wedges along the line of the lower portion of the split made by a blast until the great chunk of stone topples over on its face.

"It required a deal of time and a number of men with big iron sledges and steel wedges to separate these cubes from the quarry wall from which they had been started by the blast.

"The method now pursued with the cannon balls is to start the block of stone away by a light blast, and then between the quarry face and the block several of the smaller solid shot, usually the four inch sort, are dropped down into the aperture. Two men with crowbars give the block a little shake, and the instant the block moves in the slightest manner forward the shot take up their 'purchase' on the space made, when the large cannon balls, some measuring 14 or 15 inches and weighing 200 or 300 pounds, are dropped into the top of the gap. Now, the slightest outward jar by levers on the big stone sends these heavy cannon balls dropping downward of their own weight until, with an easy forward motion, the cube goes over on its face.

"These shot do away with any driving. Of necessity their great weight in proportion to their size forces them downward, and their form prevents any chance of backward setting of the block.

"These cannon balls are also used as rollers, as they take up and go over the inequalities of the quarry surface and can be rolled in any direction without resetting, thus doing away with the old style wooden rollers.

"They are also used to smother heavy clearing out blasts. Heavy rope mats are thrown over the surface where the blast has been set, and these cannon balls are thrown on the mats."
—Boston Globe.

Bob Yates, the Checker Genius.

Whether Yates was the greatest checker player that ever lived is the same question as whether Morphy was the greatest of all chess players. Each has his faithful followers who can see no peers. The untimely death of each has left their respective reputations on a par. That Yates was a wonder no checker player denies. His aged father continues in the restaurant business in Fulton market, New York, and his place is one of the pilgrimage spots of the city for checker enthusiasts. The old gentleman says it was his son's wonderful memory that made his boy the champion of the world. He also declares that his son was happiest when he disguised himself in fisherman's clothes and trimmed the crack players of the market without disclosing his identity.—Schaefer's Checkerist.

Spread of Leprosy In Germany.

Germany is getting nervous over the spread of leprosy in the empire. The imperial board of health has just reported that there were 22 known cases of leprosy in Prussia last year. There were also six cases which are suspected and are still under observation and probably some which have not been reported. In the city of Hamburg ten cases were found. In Mecklenburg-Schwerin another case was reported. In the Memel district of Prussia the disease is indigenous. The Prussian ministry for religious and medical affairs is to make a systematic search for undiscovered cases.

"Betrothal Cakes" Now.

A new terror is about to be added to existence. The bakers and confectioners who are at present disporting themselves in the Agricultural hall propose to bring into fashion a "betrothal cake" similar to the wedding, birthday and christening cakes, in which case it is suggested that the "gay deceiver" would be the baker's best friend. The Bakers' Times, however, points out that care should be taken to give a guarantee with each betrothal cake that it will not keep beyond a month lest it should be "used in evidence" against a truant lover.—London Chronicle.

Like Unto Like.

Professor Tait of Edinburgh, after having subdued a lady pianist who annoyed him by taking to the bagpipes, was troubled by an amateur elocutionist in the house. One day, the story goes, when the house was filled with oratory a volley of explosions came from Tait's room, followed by smoke and unearthly smells. The lessons in oratory were suspended, and every one in the house collected to find what the trouble was.

Tait, with unmoved countenance, said to the landlord, "As there seems to be no restraint on the nature of the studies pursued in these lodgings, I have begun a series of experiments in high explosives, from which I expect to draw much advantage." The elocution ceased.

A MAGICIAN'S TRICK REVEALED.

How a Cane May Be Made to Stand Alone Without Any Support.

The widow of Herrmann, the celebrated sleight of hand performer, revealed the modus operandi of the famous cane trick when discussing "Magic as a Home Amusement" in The Woman's Home Companion: "The feat of compelling a walking stick or umbrella to stand upright in the middle of a parlor without being supported by anything or anybody always seems wonderful. It is best when about to perform this feat to have a black screen for a background and to order the stick or umbrella to stand alone about a foot in front of this screen. To show the audience that there is no person or apparatus behind this screen to secretly help the stick to stand when commanded the performer can take the screen away for a few minutes until all are satisfied that there is no hidden apparatus there. Pass the cane around among the audience to let them see there is no pin in the cane's ferrule and that it is an ordinary cane, absolutely without life.' When the screen is again in place, the stick can be hypnotized by a few mysterious mumblings, which will be certain to keep the audience guessing in the wrong direction. Then the stick will stand alone for as long as the performer may desire.

"The secret of hypnotizing is so simple that the audience will never suspect it. It is to preciously tie a yard of black thread from the top of one of the front legs of an ordinary chair to the top of the other front leg, letting the 'bag' of the thread fall to the ground until ready for the 'hypnotizing.' Carelessly place the stick within the 'bag' of the thread, planting the stick upright six inches from the chair, making it appear that it is only by the merest accident that the performer selects this particular spot. Now take your hands away, and, of course, the stick will stand where you place it. The supporting thread will not be seen on account of the dark background. This and many other feats any amateur can perform after a little practice."

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of Pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles 10 cents at R. R. THE LATEST AS TO NERVES AND STRENGTH

It is not muscle so much as the nerves back of muscle which show one's strength and power of endurance. And the study with able physicians of to-day is how to keep the nerves in perfect health and fitted for the strain of everyday living. Headache of every type, nerve weakness, dyspepsia, sleeplessness, languor, restlessness, nervous dyspepsia, muscular weakness, brain weariness, poor circulation—a thousand different unpleasant feelings and symptoms are due to nerve waste and nerve weakness,—especially in women and children. But how can all this be prevented, one will ask? How can my broken down constitution be restored, and nerve strength and full, robust health be secured. Just two points to remember: Determine that you will grow strong in nerves and health, and decide to use at once that most famous nerve cure, CUTICELIN. It is delicious in taste, quick in action and makes the wearied nerves tingle with renewed strength and every function the stronger and faculty the brighter by its use. Druggists sell it.

The Morning Star.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 20.

DISTURBANCES IN RUSSIA.

Alarm in High Circles at St Petersburg. Three Students Killed by Cossacks. Many Arrested.

By Cable to the Morning Star

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—Alarm pervades high circles here. The police have notified house owners to have their dvornicks, or house police, report for duty, and hold themselves in constant readiness. A sotnia or company of Cossacks passed the Moscow gate this morning on the way to Tsarskoe Selo, seventeen miles south of St. Petersburg, where the Czar has just removed to. The police said they would escort the Czar back to the Winter Palace and that he would return by carriage instead of by rail. It appears more probable, however, that Cossacks were merely sent to Tsarskoe-Selo as a persecution, since his Majesty is more easily protected there than here.

It is apparently confirmed that three students were killed yesterday. The Cossacks rode into the crowds on the sidewalk and many faces were cut open by their knotted whips. Students and working men threw rubber shoes, canes and snowballs at the Cossacks. It is reported that one Cossack was killed.

An official of the political police said a thousand prisoners were taken, among them being three hundred and fifty women students. The presence of workingmen among the rioters rendered this demonstration more dangerous than any known in a generation.

After reading the manifesto the students threw their crumpled copies into the crowd and raised a flag inscribed "For Liberty."

The students also shouted "Help us get our rights" and the mob responded with cheers.

Serious riots occurred in St. Petersburg to day on the occasion of a solemn mass in the Cathedral of Our Lady of Kasan for the repose of the soul of M. Bogoliepoff, the minister of public instruction, who was shot and fatally wounded by Karpowich. The police fired their revolvers and it is rumored that five students were killed and eighty others either seriously or slightly injured. Wholesale arrests, including many women, followed the rioting.

CLOAK-MAKERS REVOLT.

A General Strike Involving from 10,000 to 12,000 Pending in New York.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The Times will say to morrow:

Notwithstanding the fact that the Brotherhood of Cloakmakers passed a resolution last Spring to the effect that there will be no strikes for a year, it was said yesterday that a general strike, involving from 10,000 to 12,000 cloak-makers is pending. The executive committee of the union stated yesterday that the manufacturers took advantage of the anti-strike resolution and believing the cloak-makers would not strike, have been cutting down prices. Several small strikes took place without the authority of the union, and more cutting of prices followed. Finally, the executive committee decided to ignore the anti strike resolution if the schedules of wages which are now being prepared for the late Spring and Summer trade is refused by the employes, and the scale will be enforced by the first general strike of cloak makers in case, as is expected, it is refused.

NO PROSPECT FOR PEACE.

British Government Notified That Gen. Botha Rejected the Terms Offered.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

LONDON, March 19 —Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, to-day informed the House of Commons that General Botha has rejected the peace terms offered him.

General Botha, Mr. Chamberlain said, had conveyed the information in a letter to General Kitchener, in which he announced that he was not disposed to recommend the terms of peace General Kitchener was instructed to offer him, to the earnest consideration of his government. General Botha added that his government and its chief officer entirely agreed with his view. Mr. Chamberlain added:

"I propose to lay the papers connected with the negotiations on the table to-night."

SQUEEZE IN PORK.

For Delivery in May Soared to $16 50 Per Barrel—Shorts Alarmed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Pork for delivery in May soared to $16 50 a barrel to day, $2.50 higher than the price at the beginning of the month and at the highest point since the beginning of the Lipton squeeze. Shorts became alarmed to day by rumors that two influential operators had secured control of the market and they covered, regardless of cost. Short lines of May pork are said to aggregate 150,000 barrels. At present there are only 30,000 barrels of contract pork in stock and a large part of it is owned by a packer said to be in the deal to squeeze shorts. The option has two months to run, however.

GEORGIA NEGROES.

One Thousand of the Race Asking Transportation to Liberia.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, GA., March 19.—Four negroes representing, it is said, one thousand of their race living in Elbert county, in the northern portion of the State, to day appeared before Governor Candler and asked that he furnish transportation to them that they may return to Liberia. It is said the negroes may ask aid of the national government.

NEGOTIATIONS AT PEKIN MAY FAIL.

Foreign Ministers Cannot Agree Upon Any Uniform Basis of Indemnity.

THE DIFFICULTY AT TIEN TSIN

Anglo-Russian Dispute Still Unsettled. Armed Forces Are Still Confronting Each Other—Russians Ordered to Fire if Work is Begun

By Cable to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—It is feared here that negotiations at Pekin respecting indemnities may fail, owing to the greed of individual nations Mr. Rockbill, our special commissioner, who has been in close communication by cable with the State Department, has nothing but discouraging reports to make of this important branch of the negotiations. It appears that the ministers cannot agree upon any uniform basis of indemnity, some of the Powers demanding enormous sums.

In most cases the Powers contend for the right of fixing their own indemnities. The result is that each Power, in order not to be outdone, fixes the total of its claims at an enormous figure, far beyond anything known to the history of indemnity collections. When the point is made that the sum total of these national claims is far beyond the ability of China to pay, some of the nations reply by professing a willingness to scale down their claims as soon as the fact of China's inability is manifested. However, as another precaution, the same nations promptly adjust their claims so that the scaling down process, if applied, would still leave them with a total indemnity claim at least equal to that of any other nation.

The difficulty encountered in passing this point in the negotiations is attracting much more of the attention of the officials here than the threatened collision between the allies at Tien Tsin, which, by the way, has so far not been the subject of a report to the State Department from Mr. Rockhill, though there is reason to believe that some of the ambassadors here have made it the basis of unofficial conferences with the Secretary of State.

The Tien Tsin Difficulty.

LONDON, March 19 —Some of the afternoon papers say the Tien Tsin difficulty has been arranged. The misunderstanding was due to the Chinese granting the same concession to two nations.

The arrangement enables Great Britain to proceed with the construction of the railroad siding, but if Russia's concession proves to be earlier than that of Great Britain, the latter is to acknowledge the claims of Russia. The Foreign Office, however, has no information tending to confirm the announcements of an arrangement having been made, and the officials are rather inclined to doubt that such an arrangement has been arrived at. They say the original concession was given up by Russia.

Excitement Continues.

TIEN TSIN, Tuesday, March 19, 1901. —The excitement and anxiety here as to the possible developments of the Anglo Russian siding dispute do not abate. A company of British troops and a company of Russian soldiers remain encamped on either side of the trench, looking at each other. The Russians have orders to fire on any one commencing work. General Wogack says the trouble was caused by the unwarrantable interference of the British in the affairs of the Russian concession, and he adds that the siding will not be continued unless he receives orders from his superiors.

Field Marshal Von Waldersee is expected here to day. Both sides will appeal to him but they both consider the matter to be beyond his authority and will await orders from Europe.

Speaking of the attack made by a number of excited French soldiers on some members of the British Sikh regiment, Sunday, in the French concession, General Lorne-Campbell says it was merely a child ish outbreak against the orders of their own general, who had forbidden the French soldiers to enter the British concession. This order followed a request made by General Lorne Campbell after almost every resident had complained of the behavior of the French in insulting women, refusing to pay for purchases, acting riotously and abusing American and British soldiers.

British Must Act.

General Voyron, the French commander, recognized that this must stop and ordered the French soldiers to keep in their own concession. General Lorne-Campbell was perfectly satisfied that General Voyron was in harmony with himself and anxious to maintain order. Major Foote (Ninth U. S. infantry) says the French soldiers were abusive to the American troops who were unarmed while out on pass, while the French were armed with swords or bayonets. On one occasion an American disarmed a Frenchman and turned over his weapon to the sergeant of the guard, explaining satisfactorily his reasons for the action taken.

Major Foote thought that sooner or later the British must act in the interest of the concession.

General Voyron says there is no friction between the French and the British. The incident of Sunday was regrettable, was caused by a few excitable men, and has no connection whatever with any feeling individual Frenchmen may hold in favor of the Russian claims in connection with the land on which it was proposed to build the railroad siding.

Regarding Manchuria.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 19—Answering a question of the correspondent of the Associated Press, a competent official, to-day said:

"It is not true that Russia has yielded to the representations of any of the Powers and modified her demands respecting Manchuria, because no representations have been made. Every tentative attempt to address the Russian government on the subject of our pour parlers with China has been categorically declined. Russia is a great power and has the right to interfere. Tentatives made in a friendly spirit, however, received a friendly answer. But, plainly stated, Russia cannot receive inquiries regarding the above pour parlers. The result there of will doubtless be made known latter."

The informant of the correspondent of the Associated Press admitted that the power rebuffed was Great Britain.

The informant of the correspondent ridiculed the talk of a military conflict at Tien Tsin. He said: "If diplomacy is unable to settle the controversy Russia is willing to submit it to arbitration, perhaps to The Hague Tribunal, or to some other arbitrator. After England captures DeWet perhaps she will have the courage for a military conflict in another quarter of the world. While he is promenading around the British forces, it is hardly probable that England will seek trouble elsewhere.

Russian Modifications.

LONDON, March 20.—Dr. Morrison, writing in the Times from Pekin, says:

"Prince Ching received to day and confirmed the information as to Russia's modifications of the Manchurian convention. The Chinese minister at St. Petersburg officially reports that Russia has agreed to eliminate the clause granting her exclusive privileges in Mongolia and Turkestan, and to modify various other clauses objected to by China.

"Prince Ching warmly appreciates the assistance rendered China by the intervention of England, the United States and Japan, but he is not optimistic concerning the return of the court to Pekin.

"The Russian amendments do not seem to modify sensibly the character of the convention as creating a permanent protectorate. The amended clause giving Russia the right to construct a railway joining the Manchurian line to the Great Wall declares that the concession of the railway between Shan Hai Kwan and Niu Chwang to a foreign company was a breach of a previous agreement between China and Russia.

"No agreement has hitherto been published with which the concession could conflict, and it is evident that there have been a series of such secret agreements, beginning with the secret treaty, which Li Hung Chang negotiated during his mission to Russia in 1896. I questioned Prince Ching concerning this treaty, and he assented to my suggestion of its existence without the slightest demur. I have reason to believe it originally promised China protection only against Japan, but was modified at China's request to include protection against aggression by all foreign Powers. China invoked its provisions after Germany secured Kio Chou, but Russia turned a deaf ear.

A DETROIT ROMANCE.

Return of a Remorse Stricken Husband to His Aged Wife After an Absence of Twenty-five Years.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

DETROIT, MICH., March 19.—A special to the Free Press from Grand Rapids says:

Within the past ten days in the beautiful home of Charles P. Limbert, a prominent member of society and business circles, a drama has been enacted that in a novel would be discredited as bordering on the impossible.

It has been generally accepted for the past quarter of a century that Mrs. Limbert, the aged mother of Charles Limbert, was a widow. Recently the aged lady was stricken with paralysis and about two weeks ago, while very low, she begged for her husband, asking to see him but a few minutes. All attempts to sooth her were in vain.

One week ago, an aged stranger drove up to the house and asked Miss Limbert is who is the constant companion of her invalid mother, if he might see Mrs. Limbert. Miss Limbert refused on account of her mother's illness.

"Are you Clara?" asked the old gentleman.

"Yes," was the answer.

"I am your father," he said, with a sob, and he was ushered in when Miss Limbert had recovered from the first shock.

The old man was greatly agitated and sank in a faint into a chair, but revived, and after consultation with the doctors was permitted to see his wife. The recognition was instantaneous and as the two embraced the household withdrew. The door was shortly shoved open and, ashy white, the father staggered into the hall and sought the arms of the nurses as props. He rallied during the afternoon, but in the evening, when he witnessed his wife's sufferings again, he collapsed and was carried to a bed in a semi-unconscious condition. Later he become totally unconscious and never revived. Friday he died and Saturday with the greatest secrecy, he was buried in a country cemetery nearly ten miles out of town. There was no coffin used, but the children insisted on reviving an old Indian idea of wrapping the body in rich linen and rolling it in a beautiful shawl and then resting it upon a frame with handles.

Before he was gone the venerable man said he was a ranch owner with property in Colorado, and on his person was found a large amount of currency and some valuable papers.

The funeral was conducted so quietly that the mother still believes the father lives and is in the room opposite her own, ill. It is feared that she will not survive if the news of the death is communicated to her.

AS TO FREIGHT RATES.

Representatives of Shipping Interests in Conference and Exchanging Views.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Representatives of Eastern and Southern shipping interests and members of the Southern Classification Committee met here to-day and exchanged views regarding the friction which has existed for some time between local shippers and the transportation companies.

A year ago the Classification Committee advanced in class over two-thirds of the 2,600 items of merchandise. This caused small shippers to complain, as the burden of the increased freight rates fell upon them, while the big shippers who dealt in carload lots escaped.

Before the committee, F. B. Thurber, of the United States Export Association, said: "I believe it to be to the carriers' interests to foster small shippers. Transportation companies can get a better average rate from many small shippers than from a few large ones, and it should be remembered that large shippers are constantly pressing for lower rates and individual advantages, while the small shippers are not heard in the case except through commercial organizations."

GUARDS HELD AS HOSTAGES.

Two Hundred and Eighty-four Convicts of the Kansas Penitentiary.

MUTINY IN A COAL MINE.

Threaten to Kill the Guards If Their Demands Are Not Complied With--Have Killed the Mules in Mines and Are Living on This Meat

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

LEAVENWORTH, KAS., March 19.—In the Kansas State penitentiary coal mine, at Lansing, 284 prisoners who went down into the mine on Monday morning have mutinied and are holding fifteen guards as hostages. They refuse to let the guards come to the surface until Warden Tomlinson promises to give them better food. They threaten to kill the guards if their demands are not complied with.

The mines are worked by the worst class of convicts and among those who have mutinied are twenty life prisoners. Warden Tomlinson has refused to grant the demand.

There was great consternation this afternoon among the families of the guards who are held by the convicts. All the penitentiary shops have been closed and the convicts have been locked in their cells in order to have all the guards in readiness for emergency to handle the convicts should they attempt to rush from the mine.

Prisoners' Complaints.

Many complaints have been made by the prisoners because of the grade of food furnished them, and to this dissatisfaction has been added allegations of mistreatment. No outbreak was attempted, however, until the men, who had entered the mine, refused to return unless their demands were granted. They killed the mules used in the mine, and are living on this meat.

Serious trouble is apprehended if it is found necessary to send deputies into the colliery.

The miners have threatened to wreck the mines, but the threat is laughed at by Warden Tomlinson, who says they would not attempt this, as such action would endanger their lives. He says he will starve them out.

A communication was received from one of the guards to-day stating that they were hungry and tired, but so far as he could learn all were alive.

Beginning the Outbreak.

The first outbreak in the mine took place shortly after the noon meal yesterday and was started by the convicts in Division No. 8. Of the nineteen men in this division sixteen seized the guard and overpowered him and announced that they had decided to strike. They told the guard that they had decided to mine two instead of three cars of coal as a day's work in the future, and that they proposed to have better food. This guard was left in charge of two of the convicts in the mutiny, while the others marched to the adjoining division and called on the convicts there to join the revolt. The convicts were soon marching through the mine from one division after another, yelling and swinging their lamps and picks. Other desperate convicts entered into the spirit of the revolt, while short-term men generally offered no opposition to the mutineers and quietly joined them. So far as can be learned, no opposition of any kind was offered the convicts. The officers being unarmed, were helpless, and the life of any one would have been forfeited had he tried even to check the mad spirit of the convicts.

Guard McShane, one of the fifteen hostages, was hoisted to the surface to night, the striking convicts permitting it because of his being ill. He reported that the prisoners have been careful to avoid any violent act. The other guards, he said, are in good condition and will hold out as long as the convicts remain mutinous.

An hour later a signal came from below and a lone convict, not in sympathy with the strike, was hoisted As the cages were half the distance from the bottom of the shaft, the prisoner was compelled to climb four hundred feet, crawling up on the shaft timbers to reach the cages. The convict said the men in the mine had had nothing to eat since noon yesterday, except some corn coffee which was made from corn used to feed the mules in the mine. The mules, he said, will be eaten unless the strike is ended soon. Late to night another convict was hoisted to the surface to confer with the warden.

Warden Tomlison says he will force the convicts to surrender unconditionally, much as he regrets starving his own officers.

At an End.

The insurrection of the convict miners in the State shaft at Lansing was brought to a close at 11:30 o'clock to-night and the mutinous convicts are being placed in their cells as fast as they can be brought to the surface. The imprisoned guards have been released and are again above the surface.

GEN. HARRISON'S WILL.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 19.—The will of General Harrison was filed for probate to-day. He bequeaths to the Union Trust Company, as trustee, $125,000 to be invested, the interest to be paid to his wife during the term of her life. To his wife he also leaves $15,000; to his daughter Elizabeth $10,000 to be paid to his wife as trustee. He leaves $10,000 to be invested for his grandson Benjamin Harrison McKee. To each of his grandchildren, Mary Lodge McKee, Marthena Harrison, and William Henry Harrison, he leaves the sum of $2,500.

Item sixteen of the will reads as follows: "If another child should be born to me of my present marriage I give and bequeath to such child the sum of ten thousand dollars. If a boy shall be born to me he shall bear my name, and my sword and sash shall be given to him instead of to my son Russell."

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

John R Ashe, President of York Cotton Mills, Threw Himself Into a Well.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, GA., March 19.—A special from Yorkville, S. C., says:

John R. Ashe, president of the York Cotton Mills, committed suicide by throwing himself into a well. It is believed the deed was committed under temporary aberration, caused by a failure to finance a debt of his mill, amounting to $30,000. A feature of the affair is the fact that Superintendent Grimes of the mill, had already perfected arrangements to get the desired money.

WU TING FANG ON CHINESE CIVILIZATION.

Comparison Instituted With That of the West—Address Delivered at the University of Chicago.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

CHICAGO, March 19.—Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to the United States, delivered the convocation address of the University of Chicago, at the Studebaker theatre this afternoon, before the faculty of the institution, and an audience that packed the theatre to the doors. Mr. Wu took for his subject, "Chinese Civilization." His defence of the civilization of his native country, in his comparisons with that of the civilization of the Occident was much applauded. Mr. Wu said:

"True it is that China's isolation has served to strengthen the nation's character and given it a marked individuality, but this has not been gained without great losses. The most serious is that the nation has not been able to profit by the trials, experiences and achievements of the rest of the world. This is especially true with scientific knowledge and mechanical inventions.

"But does civilization consist of railways, telegraphs, telephones, electric lights, battleships, rapid-firing guns, magazine rifles and a thousand and one things which are often regarded as necessary for a progressive nation? This would be a very narrow interpretation of the world. Civilization has, I believe, a broader meaning, with intelligence, order, morality and refinement for the essential elements. Such a civilization China undoubtedly has—a civilization different, to be sure, from that of the West, but a civilization, nevertheless. In other words, civilization is the elevation a nation has reached in its progress from a lower to a higher state of society. It is to be expected that the civilization attained by China should be different from that attained by the nations of the West, by reason of their difference in national development. Chinese ways are not necessarily bad because they often seem strange to Western eyes. It is merely a question whether one is accustomed to them or not.

"There has lately been a great deal of newspaper talk about civilizing China. I give credit to those people who advocate such a course of their good intention, but its desirability to say nothing of its difficulty should not be overlooked. China has already a civilization of her own. It is the growth of time. Long before the ancestors of the people of the West used to be naked savages and emerged from the forests of Central Europe, the Chinese had already known the use of the compass and the art of printing. Now for the people of the West to turn around and then ask the Chinese to put away their old civilization is rather novel. The people of the West may know more than the Chinese about the building of railroads, the floating of foreign loans, the combination of capital, the development of resources and the like. All this is granted; but the Chinese naturally feel that they were in a better position to judge what is best for their own interests and welfare than any outsider can be. Therefore, any attempt to impose upon them any reform or religious they do not feel the need of, is apt to create trouble. The use of force is especially to be deprecated, as this serves only to inflame their passions and rouse their resentment and opposition. But, on the other hand, much can be accomplished by exercising tact and discretion, and, above all, by giving due consideration to their sentiments and prejudices.

"If the people of the West would study the civilization of China instead of trying to pull it down, they would save themselves a great deal of trouble. They will find that China, old as she is, still exhibits all the strength and vigor of full maturity. They will find that the civilization that has stood the test of forty centuries is far from being effete. They will find that the proper course to be pursued in putting China on the road to prosperity and happiness, is not to shake the foundation of her social and political fabric, but to allow her to incorporate such elements of Western civilization as she can assimilate. By adopting from the West only what is best for her welfare and avoiding everything that is not suited to the conditions and needs of her people, she will transform herself into a modern nation without losing those elements of national character which have made her great and strong in the past."

SEVERE SNOW STORM

Raging Throughout the Northwest—Railroad Traffic Delayed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, March 19.—A snow storm approaching a blizzard in severity swept over the Missouri valley to day, and to night it was still raging. Nebraska, Western Iowa, South Dakota, Wyoming and Kansas felt the effects of the storm which tied up street car traffic in many cities and delayed railroad traffic. In Northwest Michigan where the railroads had hardly recovered from last week's storm a heavy snow fell and continued all night. It was feared it would do more damage than the last storm, and arrangements were made to side track trains to prevent their being snowed in. Wisconsin reports snow and rain storms, with rivers and streams out of their beds. Near Racine serious floods are feared. At Prairie du Chien the lower part of the town is flooded, and eighteen inches of water is over the railroad tracks.

An Ingersoll Story.

"I will tell you a story about the late Colonel Ingersoll which I never saw in print," said a lawyer who knew the great agnostic well.

"When he was an attorney in Peoria, Ills., a young wife called to see him about filing a suit for divorce. Ingersoll questioned her closely and after she had detailed a number of grievances he told her that none was sufficient. She was much perturbed in consequence and finally appealed to him to know on what grounds she could procure her bill. The colonel took a lawbook from his collection and pretended to examine it. After this he turned to her and said: 'Madam, I find nothing in this book to fit the situation. But if you can establish the fact that he is addicted to the unmasculine habit of eating ice cream soda I know a judge who will give you a decree.'

"That, in Ingersoll's opinion, in a man, was inexcusable."—New York Sun.

Keeping His Fingers Supple.

How any great pianoforte player keeps his hands supple has often been a matter for wonder, but M. Paderewski, the king of pianists, revealed the whole secret. "The night before I play I turn my hands over to my valet, and he rubs my fingers until they tingle," declared M. Paderewski. "Then he takes one finger after the other and turns and twists it in the palm of his hand, always turning the one way. That makes the fingers supple and keeps the knuckles in good working order. Last he rubs the palm of each hand very hard —as hard as I can stand it. Just before I go on the platform to play I have a basin of hot water brought to my dressing room. In this I immerse my hands. Hot! I should say so; just about as hot as it is possible for a man to stand it." So this is the way it is done.
